MACHINES WORKING HARD – PEOPLE THINKING HARD – BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

STAFF AND COMPANY NEWS:

Congratulations to Danny Chandler and his girlfriend Kate who became parents on 27th August. They gave birth to a baby girl weighing 7lbs called Francesca. We wish them all the best.

Congratulations to Peter Stoner and his wife Natalie who also gave birth to a baby girl Hollie weighing 7lbs 11.5 oz on 29th August. We wish them well.

Danny Wynne also became a proud father when his wife Sarah gave birth to a baby girl Martha Daisy weighing in at 7lbs 11.5 oz.

We would like to welcome back to work Chris Carroll who is now recovered from his knee operation.

We would like to inform you that Danny Hardman has left the company.

We would like to congratulate Joanne Murray who passed her RICS interview in June. Joanne is now a Chartered Surveyor.

From 22 September all employees will have their annual training, performance and pay review.

INTRODUCTION

At present the construction industry is being effected by the current economic climate.

Natta Building has still achieved continued growth through this difficult trading period. This has been maintained because of the strong client base, built up over many years of successful projects.

The market we are currently experiencing has started to tighten, with clients able to drive prices down due to the decrease in demand.

It is imperative for Natta to remain competitive by minimising our construction costs. This can be achieved by working safely and avoiding accidents at all times. Accidents not only cause personal injury – or even death – but also cause lost production, extra management time, loss of existing and potential new clients.

All personnel need to adopt a professional work attitude to reduce costs and maximise production. Plant needs to be maintained and tools need to be looked after and placed in locked containers. PPE should be worn and cared for. Materials need to be stacked correctly and used in the correct quantities.

People need to produce a days work for a days pay. It is up to everyone in the Company to work hard together for our continued success, to ensure job security for all employees.
